About the Author

Since receiving his Ph.D. from the University of Iowa, David Myers has spent his career at Michigan's Hope College and has taught dozens of social psychology sections. Hope College students have invited him to be their commencement speaker and voted him "outstanding professor."

Myers's scientific articles have appeared in some three dozen scientific periodicals, including Science, the American Scientist, Psychological Science, and the American Psychologist.

He also communicates psychological science to the general public. His writings have appeared in four dozen magazines, from Today's Education to Scientific American. His seventeen books include general audience books, such as The Pursuit of Happiness and Intuition: Its Powers and Perils.

David Myers has chaired his city's Human Relations Commission, helped found a thriving assistance center for families in poverty, and spoken to hundreds of college and community groups. Drawing on his own experience, he also has written about hearing loss (A Quiet World), and he is advocating a revolution in American hearing-assistance technology (www.hearingloop.org).

He bikes to work year-round and plays daily pick-up basketball. David and Carol Myers married while students at Whitworth University and are parents of two sons and a daughter.
